THE DAVIS TRIAL.

BRITISH VIEW OF THE APPROACHING TRIAL IN RICHMOND—CAN IT BE FAIR?

[From the London Herald, Nov. 9.]

The trial of Jefferson Davis is to commence next week. The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court has consented to lay aside the scruples which induced him to refuse to hold any judicial sittings in Virginia while Congress keeps that State under martial law, and to preside at the trial of the ex-President of the Confederacy. This must be a cause of rejoicing to all concerned, especially to the Government of the United States. Mr. Chase is a vehement and extreme partisan; but the arrangements of the Supreme Court do not seem to permit of such an interchange of districts as would be possible in England; and the alternative would be a trial before Judge Underwood, whose presidency would have rendered the trial a palpable mockery of justice. Mr. Chase's high official rank, his political and personal influence, and his legal education, render him at least as fit a representative of federal justice as any Republican judge could be. Of course a really fair trial is an utter impossibility. The issues likely to be raised are of a party character, on which every man in America has long ago made up his mind; and it would scarcely be possible to find, in the whole area of the Union, an unbiased judge or twelve perfectly impartial jurors. Nevertheless it is honorable to America that such a trial can take place without fear of a result that would exasperate one half the nation and disgrace the other. Nowhere but in England, and in the English-speaking country beyond the Atlantic, could a person of such rank be tried on such a charge with any show of justice or any prospect of other issue than a condemnation to death. No one entertains the slightest fear for the life of the Confederate leader. And this is one satisfactory consequence of the long delay that has taken place.

We have said that a really impartial trial is a simple impossibility, and this, not only because the acquittal or conviction of the prisoner turns upon a constitutional question, which was for years the subject of angry controversy, and at last came to be decided by the sword; but because political issues of great importance, upon which American parties are still divided, are involved in that question, and must be at least formally decided by the verdict. If Mr. Davis be convicted of treason, it must be on the ground that the act of secession was invalid, and that a citizen of Mississippi owed to the Federal government an allegiance paramount to that which could contessedly be claimed by his State. His acquittal would assert a contrary doctrine—would pronounce that the States were sovereign, at least so far as the citizen is concerned, and that secession was a valid act. Now these are points on which every American partizan—and what American is not a partizan?—entertains a strong and even angry conviction one way or the other, a conviction not likely to be affected by any legal argument. Nineteen twentieths of the white citizens of Virginia in their hearts believe Mr. Davis to be innocent. A negro jury or a Radical jury would certainly convict. But to put negroes on the jury on such a trial would be an outrage on justice and decency, and it would need the most barefaced packing to collect a jury of white Radicals. It is worthy of notice that another division of opinion and interest, arising from the collateral consequences of the opposite constitutional doctrines, prevails among the Radicals themselves. While most of them, regardless of mere legal consistency, assert at once the illegality of secession, and the right of Northern conquest, others—among whom, we believe, is Mr. Greeley—perceive that these two theories mutually exclude each other. If secession was invalid, then the Southern States were never out of the Union, and the acts of individual citizens, however numerous, could not involve the forfeiture of the rights of the States; and thus the condemnation of Mr. Davis on the charge of treason would involve the legal consequence that the Southern States are in full possession of all their domestic and Federal rights, and would carry with it the condemnation of the whole legislation of Congress subsequently to the war. If, on the other hand, secession was a legally accomplished fact, then the South is a conquered country, and must abide the pleasure of the conquerors; but then Mr. Davis is not a traitor but a prisoner of war. Technically, there can be no doubt that this dilemma is justly put; but technical legality has been contemptuously disregarded in the recent legislation of Congress. Still it is worth while to note that the logical interest of the Radicals lies not in the conviction, but in the acquittal of the Confederate President; and that more than one of their leaders has been bold enough to avow this fact.

We say, then, that the greatness of the political interests involved makes it practically impossible that the trial should be a fair one; that is, that the issue should be decided on its legal merits, as argued before the Court, and that Mr. Davis should be acquitted or convicted, simply as it appears that his conduct was or was not technically treasonable. But we do not therefore say that the verdict is a foregone conclusion, for we cannot tell what view the jury, or even the people, may finally take of the very complicated questions to be brought before them. However that may be, one thing is earnestly desired; and that is, that Mr. Davis' conviction may not be followed by any sentence implying actual punishment. In the first place, it is clear that the moral responsibility of his acts is shared by the whole South, and ought not to be visited on any single man. Next, it is manifestly doubtful in the highest degree whether, according to the law, as it stood before the sword had modified it, his conduct was not strictly constitutional. Thirdly, what will really be tried is not Mr. Davis, but a political doctrine; and it is not just that a political verdict should bring punishment on an individual. And, finally, Mr. Davis is a man who has already suffered personal wrong and outrage; whose dignified conduct in adversity, abstinence from all political demonstrations, solicitation of sympathy or public display, has commanded, even more than his heroic struggle for his country's independence, the admiration of the civilized world; and the forfeiture of his property or his condemnation to further imprisonment, would appear as vengeance, and not as justice.

A Romance and a Wedding—A Belgian Baron Marries a Treasury Clerk.

The Baron Henry Van Havre, who is connected with one of the most aristocratic and wealthy families of Belgium, came here a few years ago as Secretary of Legation. He is about thirty years of age, tall and commanding in appearance, and an ardent lover of poetry and music. About six months after his arrival he happened to pay a visit to the Treasury Department. Miss Camilla Webb was a clerk. She was born in the Southern part of Virginia, and came to Washington about five years ago. She was accompanied by her widowed mother, and though in comparitively poor circumstances, they were known to some of the most respectable society here. The Baron effected an introduction to Miss Webb. About a year ago he returned to Europe and travelled extensively over the Continent. After spending about five months there, he resolved on coming back to this Country, impelled by a desire to express his attachment to Miss Webb, having failed to find abroad any more attractive object. Three days ago the wealthy and aristocratic Baron, accompanied by his intended bride, Miss Webb, and attended by a party of intimate friends, proceeded to the Catholic church of St. Aloysius and had the nuptial ceremony performed. The Baron is a Catholic and his wife an Episcopalian. To-day, the Episcopal ceremony of marriage was completed in presence of a select and fashionable congregation. The bride, who is about twenty years of age, was dressed in pearl colored silk, and with her wealth of golden tresses, bright blonde complexion, and delicately-chiselled features, created no small degree of admiration. In the evening they left for New York, whence they sail for Belgium.—New York Herald.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1867.

IMMIGRATION.

Without an influx of foreign labor and money in the South, our lands will lie waste and unproductive, and the consequent value of the Southern States, in their contributions to the general interests of the country, must constantly decline.

The fact that one half of the colored labor of the South has been abstracted from the agriculture of the country, since the war, is a startling consideration, and one which ought to attract public attention.—The productive value of that labor is not only lost to the South in the reduction of its products, but, instead of producers, they have become consumers almost entirely, and add very little, if anything, to the tax-paying ability of the country.

This defect of labor must be supplied from some quarter, or the poverty and unproductiveness of the South must become greater from year to year. It is palpable, that necessity alone will make agricultural laborers of the greater part of the blacks.—If it is possible for them to avoid "field work," (the only labor with which they are acquainted and to which they are adapted,) they will certainly do it. Hard work is not apt to be sought, and so long as the chances for subsistence lie in any other direction, the history of the last three years shows that they will seek it any where else but in the fields.

The power of the British market now to control the price of cotton is admitted. Its production in India, Egypt and South America can be effected at much lower rates than in the United States by hired negro labor. Hence the necessity for skilled labor. The peasantry of Europe, a people trained to labor and the exercise of the greatest amount of skill and economy, is what we need to aid in the recuperation of the South. More than this, our own white population must become more devoted to agricultural labor and the active employments of the farm. This is absolutely necessary.

Can we obtain this skilled labor from Europe? We believe by proper effort it can be done. Our foreign population, now among us, will do what they can to facilitate this matter. What is lacking but a proper effort to effect it? Let the ball be put in motion in this State.

IMPEACHMENT.

Our telegram, on yesterday, announced that the majority of the Committee on the subject, after a long agony, had reported in favor of the impeachment of President Johnson. When the various reports (three were submitted, embodying diverse views,) are received, we will publish them, as a part of the history of the times.

It is known that, heretofore, there has been a majority of the Committee adverse to impeachment; and it is more than intimated that the change in the views of Mr. Churchill, one of that former majority, has been procured by bribery,—the "bulls" of Wall Street having paid a liberal largess for his conversion, under the expectation that the revolutionary and violent proceeding of an impeachment, under the circumstances, would work a heavy advance in gold.

We have no idea that the action of the majority will be sanctioned by the House or that impeachment will be essayed. The impenchers have themselves been impeached before the grand and imposing tribunal of the Northern masses; and the men, who are responsible to their constituents, will hardly dare to outrage the popular sentiment, so unmistakably exhibited in the recent elections. But we shall see.

By the way, the former Provisional Governor of North Carolina is known now to advocate impeachment. It is a little curious that the gravest charge preferred against the President is, that he attempted to make these Provisional governors, without asking the advice of Congress?

The Richmond Whig, speaking of the Conventions now in session, or shortly to assemble, in the various Southern States, justly remarks, that the unexampled spectacle will soon be presented to the world of a social state in which the entire public worth and intelligence are deliberately placed at the mercy of the uninformed, uncultivated and inexperienced portion of the community. Jack Cade and his followers, as described by Shakspeare, were not more stolidly ignorant, nor deliriously extravagant in their expectations of the advantages to flow from the attainment of power, than many of the men who have been placed in control of the governments of the various Southern States.

Gen. Grant has suspended the extraordinary orders of Gen. Mower, removing so many officials from office, on the eve of Gen. Hancock's assuming the command.—Sheridan removed one at a time, but general sower went at it with a long scythe. He more than deserves Sheridan's fate.

There are four candidates for Mayor in New York City. The World and the regular Democratic organizations are for the re-election of Mayor Hoffman. Fernando Wood, and two others, oppose Hoffman. It is believed Hoffman will be elected.

Dr. Livingstone, the great English African traveller and explorer, who was reported to be dead some months ago, is believed to be still alive in the interior of Africa.

The Northern Methodists, during the past year, which they observed as the Centenary of Methodism, contributed $9,931,255.96, to the various Church, missionary and educational objects of the denomination.

"NEITHER COLD NOR HOT."

No character is so utterly despicable, as a fence-man, a trimmer, a sort o'so and a sort o'not-so kind of a man,—a timid, cautious whisperer, who is afraid to hear himself speak out the truth. Such men, if they can be called men, are the most unreliable, untrustworthy, hypocritical description of creatures that live.

At a time like this, decision and an outspoken course become every one. Men who, from mere personal fear or dread of the future, will now eat their own words or go about whispering what they are for, &c., are utterly contemptible and unworthy of recognition.

Such are the men who, at this crisis, when the solid interests of society and of the State are in jeopardy, when all that is dear to us as freemen and as white men is on the point of ruin, to save a little trade or to secure a little custom or a little patronage, in this or that direction, will conceal their opinions, or will exercise the highest privilege of an American citizen either stealthily or not at all, for fear of offending some one or losing something. Do such creatures claim to be freemen? Can such men be relied upon for any thing? There are others who crawl and crouch in slavish fear of displeasing others, who sacrifice all manliness, all principle, and are led captive by men who rule them as with a rod of iron.—Poor, timid, craven spirits, they are; unfit for the high born privileges of American citizens, they are ready to barter them away for a mess of pottage, or share them with an untutored and degraded race, at the bidding of partizan power. Alas! how mean a thing is a man, without principle, without decision, without courage or manhood, who will degrade himself and his race for an office, or the paltry benefits which are promised by the demagogues!

THE WORLD AND THE TIMES.

The New York World is regarded as the leading organ of the substantial Democracy of the North. It is the ablest daily among the New York journals, and is particularly desirable at the present time, because of its freedom from violence or passion, and its journalistic fairness and integrity. The World has just issued its prospectus for 1868, and offers strong inducements for an increased circulation. It merits the largest success, and we hope will receive it.

The Times, on the other hand, Raymond's paper, while it is conducted with ability, is the organ of indecision, vacillation and unreliability in Republican politics. The late defeats of Radicalism in the North alarm it, but it lacks the courage and the honesty openly to oppose what it believes will destroy the party. It calls for courage in the moderate Republicans of Congress to resist the Thad. Stevens policy, which the World criticises in the following bold and characteristic manner. The World says of the Times:

"That journal affects to deplore any action on the part of its political organization which would make negroes the political and social equals of white men, and force, through Congressional action, African suffrage on the States. It urges its friends to hold back if Mr. Stevens attempts to introduce such a test of party fidelity, and calls such holding back courage. All this strikes us as paltry trifling. Negro supremacy is fastened upon the South by the Reconstruction acts, unless those acts are repealed or substantially modified. Something to that end must be done at once. The house is on fire and the flames must be arrested. To be sure, the Republican party furnished the men who lighted up the conflagration, but no matter about that now. The Times should urge its friends now to become the party of action, and to act on the aggressive by introducing a measure of repeal of the reconstruction legislation of March, 1867. The Conservative Republicans, if any there be in Congress, should become the assailants of past Radical legislation. That would indicate courage; but to plant one's feet like a mule and refuse to advance in the right direction is mule-hood not manhood. Negro suffrage and negro supremacy are embodied in the Reconstruction acts, and if the Republicans in Congress do not now root out those elements, and so lift off the Africans from the white race in the South, they will for a second time incur the guilt of the original act. In order to gain public confidence Republicans must not only repent, but give the evidence of repentance on the negro question which we have indicated. They must do works meet for repentance and a new birth. They must introduce or uphold a bill to repeal the Reconstruction laws, and abolish the Freedmen's Bureau."

Gen. Grant's Opinions.—Gen. Grant's evidence before the Impeachment Committee is published and covers three columns; but the following tells his story:

"Mr. Woodbridge: I understand your position to be this: That you did not assume to originate or inaugurate any policy, but that when any question came up and your opinion was asked as to what the President was going to do, or had done, you gave an opinion.

Gen. Grant.—That is it, exactly, and I presume the whole Committee so understand me. I have always been attentive to my own duties, and tried not to interfere with other people's. I was always ready to originate matters pertaining to the army; but I never was willing to originate matters pertaining to the civil government of the United States. When I was asked my opinion about what had been done, I was willing to give it. I originated no plans and suggested no plan for civil government. I only gave my views on measures after they had been originated. I simply expressed an anxiety that something should be done to give some sort of control down there. There were no governments there when the war was over, and I wanted to see some government established, and wanted to see it done quickly. I did not pretend to say how it should be done or in what form."

Philadelphia, November 23.—A special despatch to the Star, of this city, from Washington, to-day, says:

"I learn, on authority believed to be wholly trustworthy, that the Attorney General has expressed the opinion that Surratt cannot be legally tried a second time for complicity in the assassination of President Lincoln, as the Constitution expressly declares that no man's life shall be twice put in jeopardy for the same offence.

A new indictment may possibly be drawn up against the prisoner, but it is more probable that he will be released by Congressional direction."

Bishop Clarke, of Rhode Island, says he has only seen five drunken people in Europe, and points a moral for America.

RECONSTRUCTION IN ALABAMA.

The extreme bitterness and proscriptive spirit, as well as the utter lack of sense, and reason, and justice, which characterize the Radical majority of the Alabama Reconstruction Convention, seem to be received with little favor at the North, except among the most violent and vindictive proscriptionists. Many of the most intelligent and honest Radical journals do not hesitate to denounce the policy adopted, and to urge upon Congress to accept no such Constitution as they propose as Republican.

The Springfield (Mass.) Republican, which we have always found the most honest, outspoken and wise journal of that party, on the 21st inst. thus speaks of the proposed reconstruction in Alabama:

From the Springfield (Mass.) Republican, Nov. 1.

ALABAMA—THE FOLLY OF PROSCRIPTION.

The decision of the Alabama Convention for the extreme policy of the disfranchisement and proscription will confirm the general opinion that the present experiment in reconstruction is a failure. The minority report on the franchise, which was almost unanimously rejected, provided for the disfranchisement of the citizen "who shall have been convicted of treason, perjury, bribery, forgery, or other high crime or misdemeanor, which may be by law declared to disqualify him," and required of the voter only an oath to support and obey the Constitution of the United States and of the State of Alabama, and to defend the Union. The majority report distranchises not only ex-rebels, but all who will not swear to approve and sustain negro suffrage. This will exclude from the ballot and from office the entire white population of the State, with the exception of a portion of the Northern settlers—for not all these are for negro suffrage—and the few Radical white Alabamians. The proscription is more sweeping than anything heretofore or elsewhere proposed, for it not only makes past loyalty a condition of suffrage, but present support of a measure that has just been voted down in several leading Republican States of the North. And if Alabama is made a Republican State for the present by such means, it will be only to be the more invetcrately against us the moment power is restored to the whites; for it surely will be restored to them; the people will not support standing armies to keep a minority in power in any State. To say that policy will not do and must be stopped is to state the case very mildly. Congress and the Republican party cannot allow it to proceed, without certain and deserved ruin.—It is in defiance of all the recognized principles of popular government and of the professed principles of the party, and its consequences can be nothing but perpetual discord and ruin in the South. The division in the Alabama Convention on the suffrage question is significant of that which must occur throughout the whole country if this thing is allowed to grow and ripen.—The Northern soldiers who have settled in Alabama and the most intelligent of the white natives in the Convention voted against the proscriptive policy; the Bureau officers, Northern and Southern Radical politicians and negroes voted for it. The Constitution adopted by the Convention will of course be nominally adopted by the people; for only the negroes will vote, the whites knowing their inability to defeat it and preferring to put the whole responsibility upon Congress. And upon Congress that responsibility will rest. If such a Constitution as the Radical Convention is now sure to make is imposed upon that State, Congress and the Republican party must be responsible for the consequences. The course reconstruction takes in Alabama is an admonition upon the general subject. Shallow politicians chuckle over the idea that all is made secure for the Presidential election, if the ten Southern States are given to the Republican candidate through a process which excludes the white population from a voice in that election. Are they quite sure of this, and will an ascendancy maintained by such means last? The mere apprehension of such consequences from the Congressional scheme of reconstruction has reduced our majorities or created majorities against us in the Republican States that are really most reliable when true republicanism is at issue; what, then, will be the result when the apprehended consequences are more than realized? And yet, with such dangers impending, men who assume to lead the Republican party attempt to divert public attention by silly talk about plots of the President to subvert the Constitution and overthrow Congress.

Our intelligent correspondent in West Virginia described in a recent letter the effect of the proscriptive policy there in rapidly diminishing the popularity and voters of the Republican party, so that Democrats confidently expect to get control of the State next year. Another correspondent writes, acknowledging the fact, but justifying the proscriptive policy, and says:

"We are called Radicals here, but are less Radicals than any Republican State. Impeachment, confiscation, negro suffrage, have no advocate in this State, and the proscriptive policy that we have adopted we would in a moment abandon could we do it safely. But our own memories and the warning example of Kentucky tell us that we must bind or be bound, and ethically wrong as it may be we prefer to bind."

Here lies the whole mistake. Conscious that the theory of proscription is wrong, it is justified on the ground that it is necessary to safety, and yet the natural and inevitable reaction against it among Republicans themselves is rapidly reducing the party. Let the West Virginia Republicans make a bold move, put their trust in sound principles, give the suffrage at the same time to their negroes and disfranchised whites, and their chance for future safety will be greatly increased. What is true of West Virginia is true of Tennessee also, of the whole South, and of the Republican party of the Union. Its strength and safety consist in doing justice, and if it puts its trust in dishonest expedients it must inevitably perish with them.

The Trial of Jeff. Davis.—It is reported that the counsel of Jeff. Davis will protest against the trial of their client before Judge Underwood, and also against nigger jurymen. In this they will have public sympathy. It would be an outrage on the decency of the nation if a man like Underwood should preside at this trial. On such an occasion, if ever, the bench should be graced by a man of learning, a man conscious of the dignity of his office, a man of probity, and one whose life has not been draggled in all the filth of party passions. Therefore Underwood is the wrong man. If Davis is to stand before a nigger jury what becomes of the notion that a man is to be tried by his peers. His peers—to cut the thing as closely as the greatest leveller could desire—should be citizens of the United States; and no Richmond nigger was a citizen of the United States when the events occurred on which Davis is to be tried. But it remains to be seen whether Congress will not cut short all this farce and declare by statute the punishment of the public enemy. If it fails to do this, it will fail in its duty.—New York Herald.

LETTERS OF "ITINERANT."

Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 25, 1867.

Among the many errors the South has committed, it has a long docket in the department of pronunciation. Chancing to be in the same car with the oft quoted Senator Wilson, on the occasion of his visit to our State, I overheard him ask the Conductor the distance to Charlotte. Now I had innocently pronounced it as the natives do. But this Senator gave it a twang that made it rhyme with the "Widow Bedotte."

It is the county seat of the famous old county of Mecklenburg, of Revolutionary memory. It is the county that furnished President Polk. He was born 2d Nov. 1795, and graduated at our University, in 1818. He defeated the great Clay for the Presidency.

Charlotte is a sort of Chicago, in point of Rail Roading. At present it is the terminus of three roads,—the North Carolina, the South Carolina and the Western Division of the Wilmington, Charlotte and Rutherford. It is the prospective terminus of three more,—the Statesville and Charlotte, the Eastern Division of the Wilmington, Charlotte and Rutherford, and the Air Line from Georgia.

First thing you know, they will be talking about a "City Horse Car Rail Road." I believe there is not one of this class of Rail Roads in this State. I often wonder if one would not be supported in Raleigh, from St. Mary's, via the Capitol, to the South end of Fayetteville street. If such a road should ever be built, I claim a free pass over it, for this suggestion.

NEW BUILDINGS.

Charlotte has the largest number of first class store buildings at present, either finished or being built, of any place in N. C., so far as my knowledge goes. R. M. Oates & Co., Stenhouse & McCauley, and others have embarked in these improvements, and now thirteen fine new stores present themselves for public admiration, to say nothing of a large number of old ones.

The National Bank is about to be put up,—a first class Banking House, near the centre of the city. It they surpass the house of the old Branch Bank of N. C., however, in neatness, convenience or comfort, they will be good managers.

I learn, through one who has paid some attention to it, that eighty six houses have either been built, rebuilt or improved considerably in the past ninety days.

Last year, in my Charlotte communication, I mentioned the singular fact, that Charlotte had no Market House. The deficiency still remains. But a scheme is on foot for building a Masonic Hall, a Town Hall and a Market Hall.

Mr. John L. Morehead is about building a block of first class stores near the centre of the city. If the son proves to Charlotte, what his honored father was to North Carolina, that city may well be proud of his citizenship. His own residence, although as yet unfinished, is an ornament.

The residence of Mr. Carson would suit, in every respect, for any city. The architecture is of a very pleasing kind, and strikes the eye most favorably.

Col. Johnson, the S. C. R R. President, is putting up a residence which will be behind few if any dwelling houses in North Carolina. It will have all the improvements and conveniences of the day. It is next door to the U. S. Mint. It would do credit to a State, much more a Territory. It will embrace all the improvements of the day.

UNITED STATES MINT.

Through all the commotions the country has undergone, the old U. S. Mint stands intact. It is decidedly a governmental looking piece of architecture. The old Eagle still perches over the doorway, but, like most of the images of this emblem of American Liberty, the fellow has a most ferocious look; his head is down, as if in the act of descending upon his prey in perfect terror. Apropos to the symbol, he should be floating freely in his native heights, as mild as a dove.

The buildings are closed as a Mint, although it is said they are to be opened by the Government as an Assaying Institution.

It is in the right place for the business, for Charlotte is surrounded with the dust, and, judging from what I saw in "Dewey's Bank," not a little of the precious metal finds its way to town.

BANKS.

Charlotte supports three Banks,—the "First National," the "City Bank of Charlotte," and "Thos. W. Dewey & Co.," formerly of your city. With the latter firm, banking is a real heir-loom. Mr. Thos. Dewey is a son of the time-honored Charles Dewey, Esq., of the old Bank of North Carolina, and judging from the freshness of the banking office, and the constant stepping in and out of mercantile men, the firm seem to be in much favor with the Charlotte dealers. Well it may. Mr. Dewey is "to the manner born." He was cradled in a bank. Handling money and figuring up interest come as natural to Thos. W. Dewey, as teaching grammar does to Wm. Bingham.

JOURNALISM.

Charlotte supports a goodly number of publications. Number one is "The Land We Love," known, like Vance, from Maine to Texas.

Number two is the Lutheran paper, the organ of the very worthy people its title imports. Number three is the "Charlotte News." Number four is the "Charlotte Democrat." Number five is the "Republican," a Radical paper.

One thing is lacking in the literary line,—namely a large bookstore. There is a book store here and a gem one of its size, but Charlotte is too large a place to put up much longer with that little stock of books.

THE MANSION HOUSE.

The weary traveller has no excuse for grumbling for want of a good meal, a good bed, and a good landlord, in Charlotte. The Mansion House has been repaired, renovated and refurnished, since my last visit. It is now a clean, neat and well ordered house. The Bar was not explored, not being in my line.

EDUCATIONAL.

This city possesses a great attraction in its facilities for female education. It is favored with two flourishing Colleges. Rev. Robert Barwell's School has not a superior in this land. It is a delightful home for a young lady. It is hard to suggest an improvement. The buildings are spacious and beautiful; the grounds are ample for all purposes of health and recreation. It is near enough and far enough from the city. The corps of teachers is full and competent. There is an air of refinement and thoroughness about the place that makes a most delightful impression on the visitor. The proof of its appreciation in this section is a catalogue of one hundred and twenty young ladies.

The other College is under the care of Rev. A. G. Stacy. It is in the building formerly occupied by Gen. D. H. Hill for his military school. The buildings and grounds are even more spacious, but the College itself is comparatively new. The proof of Mr. Stacy's acceptability is found in a growing number, already one hundred and fourteen. With age and patronage, it will, it is to be earnestly hoped, become one of the ornaments of N. C. Improvements are being made in the grounds and the furniture. The faculty is full and the rooms are filling fast.

More about Charlotte in my next.

ITINERANT.

For the Sentinel.

Messrs. Pell and Gales, Editors Sentinel:

Gentlemen—In your paper of this date I see a communication from Mr. Albert Magnin, of the 2nd. Board of Registration for Wake county. I had the honor to be a member of that Board, and believe that the gentleman's remarks, in regard to some of the Registers "having turned against law and justice," must have reference to the members of the Board, which he served with. Now, Messrs. Editors, I would respectfully request the use of your columns to reply, very briefly, to the gentleman's remarks. Now if he wishes to ventilate anything that he knows relative to my Board, or its actions, while registering in this county, he can certainly do so, as far as I am concerned, but I shall crave the same indulgence, Messrs. Editors, then, that I do now, i. e. to have permission to reply to him through your columns, and let the public judge if my course has not been just. I will not say that it was impartial, for, with all the influences which were brought to bear on the colored people, so as to mislead them, by statements such as "that the election would not come off until December," and "that they could not vote unless they paid their taxes," and "if they did vote, they would have to give six months of their labor to pay the expenses of reconstruction," I felt, Messrs. Editors, that, as long as men of respectability on the "Conservative" side stooped to measures of that kind, it was my duty to take the side of the colored man on all occasions, and instruct him in my humble way, as to the course he ought to take on election day.

I have no wish to deny that my sympathies and feelings were with the Republican party of the Country, and if I could in my humble way do anything to serve that party, I was always ready to do so; for in so doing I knew I was serving the interests of Wake County and North Carolina, but I am certain that the great ventilation that my friend Magnin wishes to give the public is in regard to my appointments of Inspectors of Election, for he as much as told me that I acted partially in my appointments. Now, Messrs. Editors, I was very careful to find men that would act impartially and give the colored man the same opportunity that the white man had, and, to be satisfied, in the absence of instructions from the Commanding General, I assumed the responsibility to swear the judges of Election to conduct the election impartially, which I am certain was done in my precincts. I take the responsibility of stating for the gentlemen that I defy any man to prove that they acted otherwise.

I have the honor to be,
Very respectfully, &c.,
T. F. LEE.
Late Chairman 2nd. Board of Registration Wake County.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 26, 1868.

[As the writer of the above considers himself to have been referred to in Mr. Magnin's Card, we give him the benefit of our columns to make his statement, and, of course, tender to Mr. M. the same privilege for a rejoinder. But as these matters are personal, we shall not only hold each one to the use of respectful language, but confine them to as little space as possible. So far their articles are unexceptionable.]

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—A farm of 1200 acres, with improvements, for sale in Halifax Co; Address Dr. R. A. Patterson, Littleton.

Look out for bargains: You will find they can be had of S. H. & W. J. Young, Fayetteville St.

Superior Buckwheat Flour, Rich Goshen Butter and Prime Factory Cheese: Douglas Bell, Market Square.

Wanted an active and intelligent man to act as State Agent of a popular Life Insurance Co. See advertisement.

FEDERAL COURT.—This Court was formally opened on yesterday.—Judge Brooks being present. The Grand Jury was charged, at length, by his Honor. There are seven negroes on the Jury.

Among the lawyers from a distance in attendance on the Court, we observe the following, in addition to those mentioned on yesterday, viz: Hons. Thos. S. Ashe, Jno. A. Gilmer, Jesse G. Shepherd, R. A. McLean, James M. Leach, and C. S. Winstead, and Messrs. H. R. Bryan, Jno. H. Haughton, T. Venable, S. S. Jackson, Ed. Cantwell and G. B. Harris.

CROWDED.—It is seldom that Raleigh is so full of strangers as it is at present. The sessions of the Federal and County Courts have attracted a large number of people, and the streets wear a busier aspect than we have seen them at any time for the past two or three years. The crowd will be likely to continue for some days. Now is the time to advertise.

REMEMBER that the Thespians will give their first representation on Friday evening, at Tucker Hall. Let us give the debut of our young townsmen a crowning presence.

THURSDAY is the day recommended by the National and State authorities as a day of Thanksgiving. Divine service will be held in all the Churches in this City, and business, generally, we presume, in compliance with custom, will be suspended.—Every individual has some just cause of gratitude and thankfulness to the Almighty, whatever our troubles and afflictions as a people.

THE Sentinel, on yesterday, being the only paper in the city which takes the telegraphic dispatches, and which alone contained the impeachment news from Washin, was in great demand. A large number of extra copies were disposed of.

The news for the next few weeks promises to be of unusual interest. The proceedings of Congress, and the trial of Mr. Davis, will furnish daily and exciting food for the popular appetite.

FRANKLIN.—In classifying the delegates elect to the "Reconstruction" Convention, we have heretofore ranked Mr. James T. Harris, of Franklin, as a Radical. We are authorized to say that this is a mistake. Mr. Harris has no sympathies with that pestilent party, but claims to be a Conservative, and a lover of his State.

THE NEW YORK Methodist advocates the call of a Pan-Methodist Union Convention, for the consummation of a substantial union between all the Methodistic branches in the United States. If a real union of all the Churches, North and South, who agree in doctrine, could be effected, it would go far to promote a real and substantial union of the people, North and South. Although negro slavery is abolished, the great bone of contention between the Northern and Southern Churches, the negro question, is not yet disposed of. Until this is done, no real union can be effected.

—We regret to perceive that Messrs. Jones and Johnston are compelled to suspend the publication of the Charlotte Daily News. During their brief connection with the Press they have made an excellent record. Financial considerations compel them to discontinue. The establishment is offered for sale.

The Trenton Gazette states that ex-Gov. Isham G. Harris has written a letter to a near relation, in which he expresses his purpose not to return to Tennessee. He expects to make Paris his home and practice his profession, the law. His health at present is quite bad, being confined to his bed most of his time.

The Nashville Banner says Gen. Stowbridge was appointed to go to Washington to collect some railroad claims. He collected not one cent, and charged $10 a day for his services! The time was one hundred and ninety days; the amount $1,900. On Governor Brownlow's order the account was paid.

Mr. George Ticknor Curtis is at work upon the life of Daniel Webster. It is completed as far as the year 1833.

STATE ITEMS.

—The Wilson Carolinian records the creditable fact that every Northern man, without exception, in that town, declined to support the Radical-negro ticket in the late election. With but one exception, they all voted the Conservative ticket.

—Sinclair, the Radical (formerly Secesh) "Fighting Parson," had a scrimmage in Lumberton, a few days since. The Wilmington Star thus records the matter:

"The quarrel, we believe, was of a personal nature, growing out of the natural antipathy borne by all honest men towards cringing vipers. The canting, hypocritical apostle of Radicalism came off considerably bruised about the frontispiece, which fact recompensed his adversary for some severe blows received from the burly antagonist twice his weight."

—The State Council of the Friends of Temperance assembled in Wilmington on Friday last,—Gen. R. B. Vance, President, being in attendance and presiding. His report of operations was very gratifying and was received with much applause. On Saturday, Gen. D. H. Hill, who was present as a Representative, by invitation of the Council entertained them with a very interesting address. The Council had not adjourned on Monday.

—The Statesville American, noticing the decease of Col. R. C. Pearson, of Morganton, justly says:

"Col. Pearson combined all the estimable qualities of a high toned gentleman, and none excelled him as a public spirited citizen, desiring the welfare of his State and the prosperity of her citizens. He was the first President of the Western North Carolina Railroad, and had devoted much of his wealth and talents to that important work, which is destined, at no distant day, to unite the sea-coast of North Carolina with the Valley of the Mississippi. He had held other public trusts of responsibility and usefulness, and in a pre-eminent degree possessed the confidence of his fellow-citizens, who will miss him in the sphere of his usefulness."

—The Charlotte Democrat says:

"A large sale of the personal property of the late James H. Davis, of this County, took place last week. The Administrator had the good sense to advertise it extensively, and the result was a large collection of people from Mecklenburg, Union, Gaston and Lincoln Counties in this State, and Lancaster and York Districts, S. C. No doubt double the cost of advertising and printing was made in the sale of one mule or horse.

Property sold at what was considered high prices on the day that we were present. Common mules brought from $150 to $200; good horses from $175 to $210—one fine saddle horse was purchased at $334.—Dry cattle, $18 to $43 per head; pork hogs about 10 cents gross; wheat $2.80 per bushel—nine months credit, with interest from date."

Correspondence of the Sentinel.

THE "ELECTION" IN ROCKINGHAM.

LOMAX'S, N. C., Nov. 23rd, 1867.

Editors Sentinel:—On Wednesday, closed the election in this County, and I will now give you a history of this miserable farce.

Until the day of election there were few whites but thought that the election would be held at every precinct in the County, but, strange to say, there were only three precincts in the County, where votes were polled. The order of Gen. Canby said that due notice should be given, and I do not think that one-third of the whites in the County had notice of the election. A great many whites went to their usual precincts to vote, but, upon arrival, found that no election was held, and returned to their homes.—There may be a few isolated cases of men, who, after going to their precincts, found no books opened nor judges, and, after finding out how matters stood, returned home, and, by hard riding, reached a voting precinct. But such cases were rare. In this regiment, six precincts were consolidated into one, viz: Rocky Springs, New Bethel, Madison, Martin's, Grogansville and Leaksville. These were compelled to vote in Leaksville. The others were consolidated at Wentworth and Reidsville. In the first place, there was no necessity for this consolidation. It was a plan of the "Loyal Leaguers," and the Military at Greensboro', to throw the elections in the hands of unprincipled scamps, which would have been impossible in the ordinary mode of proceeding. As a proof of this, the Grand Sentinel and Grand Mogul of the League in this County was heard to remark, on the day of election, "that rather than the county should fall into the hands of the Democrats, he would take a torch in one hand and a musket in the other and march from the Atlantic to the Pacific." Rumor says that he said "he would head a negro regiment and march, &c.," but the last he denies. The other he does not. It was unnecessary to consolidate the precincts.

Mr. Lindsay, one of the board of Registration, and also one of the judges of election, says that on Friday before the election he sent a special courier from Madison to Greensboro to prevent consolidation, sending the names of men fully qualified to act as judges for Madison. On Sunday, he received notice that the voting from the Madison precinct must be done at Leaksville.—On Monday morning, he published it in Madison, and, at that time, negroes were passing through Madison to Leaksville, having walked 10 or 15 miles. How did these negroes know so much better than the whites that there would be no election at Madison? How did these negroes, living 10 or 15 miles further off from Leaksville than the people of Madison, know that the voting was to be done in Leaksville?

But to show this matter up in its true light, I will merely give the figures: There were registered, in this regiment, 720 whites, 620 blacks. The result of the voting was six hundred and upwards of blacks and 240 whites. These may not be exactly the figures, but it is not far wrong, one way or the other. But it may be asserted that the whites would not turn out. But it is false.

I sincerely believe, and all the circumstances show, that it was a preconcerted plan to carry the election in favor of the negro leagues.

Now why was Leaksville selected as the voting place for the regiment? If the different precincts were to be consolidated, why select L? Look on your map of N. C., and you will find Leaksville only three miles from the Virginia line, in the North West Corner of the county. So you see the good people of Martin's, 22 miles off, where there are very few negroes, must ride from home, 12 or 15 miles, making the round sum of 30 odd miles, to cast their vote.

Why not consolidate at a more central point—say Grogansville, almost equal distance from all the precincts? I will tell you: Because at Leaksville by far the largest number of blacks registered, almost if not quite half in the regiment; and because men at New Bethel, Rocky Springs and Martin's, where there were very few negroes registered, even if they knew of the consolidation on election day, would not have time to reach Leaksville in time to vote. Foul play is plainly evident. So much for Consolidation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26, M.

MR. DAVIS' TRIAL POSTPONED—GENERAL LEE.

RICHMOND, Nov. 26, P. M.

In the U. S. Court, Mr. Evarts, for the Government, said that the intent of the Government was to try the Davis case some day this term.—One consideration in fixing the day was the time when Chief Justice Chase would attend here, and the Government proposed to name a day after the adjournment of the Supreme Court for the time, when Chase could sit with Underwood.

Mr. Evarts suggested the fourth Wednesday in March.

Mr. O'Connor said that the personal convenience of Mr. Davis would have been promoted if that had taken place in May last, and it would be very convenient now, but his counsel would agree to the proposition of Mr. Evarts. He thought the presence of Judge Chase would be beneficial, not alone to the interests of the accused, but to all interests.

Judge Underwood said that the arrangement proposed by the Government was agreeable to the Court, and particularly so, because the Court earnestly desired that Judge Chase should sit upon the case. It was due to the Defendant that two Judges should sit on the case, in order that appeals might be taken on disputed questions, and the case carried up by the Defendant to the highest Court.

The Judge agreed to fix the 20th. of March for the trial, and, on application of Mr. O'Connor, to extend Mr. Davis' bail bond until that time, and farther agreed that if Judge Chase could not preside then, to extend the leave of absence till the Court following.

The order for the extension of the leave of absence of Mr. Davis, and the fixing of the 20th. of March for the trial, was entered by order of the Judge, and the Davis trial ended for this term.

Mr. Davis did not appear in Court. The three witnesses who came into Court, Ex-Secretary Seddon, Ex-Gov. Letcher and Gen. Wickham, were recognized to appear at the next trial day.

Messrs. Seddon, Letcher and several other witnesses for the government were before the Grand Jury, to-day, which shows that Mr. Davis will be tried on a new indictment at the term in March.

Mr. Davis will remain here several days. He will not spend the winter in Canada.

Gen. Lee goes, on Thursday, to Petersburg to attend the marriage of his son, Gen. W. H. F. Lee.

CONVENTION PROBABLY DEFEATED IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

CHARLESTON, Nov. 26, P. M.

The impression is almost unanimous here, that, owing to the lack of the requisite majority of registered voters, the Convention will be defeated in South Carolina. Sixty-two thousand votes are required to ensure Convention, and only 25,000 are known to have been cast in twenty Districts out of the thirty in the State.

DEATH OF MRS. HOWELL.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26, P. M.

Mrs. Howell, Mr. Davis' mother-in-law, died at Montreal. The deceased lady was a native of Georgia, and about 65 years of age.

THE ALABAMA CONVENTION.

MONTGOMERY, Nov. 26, P. M.

The following is the tax article adopted by the Convention:

All taxes on property in this State shall be assessed in exact proportion to the value of such property; provided, however, that the General Assembly may lay a poll tax not to exceed one dollar and fifty cents on each poll, which shall be applied exclusively in aid of the public school fund.

The day's session was consumed in discussing the proposition to vest power in the Governor to appoint all Judicial officers. The Convention finally provided for the election of the Supreme Court Judges by the Legislature, and all other Judicial officers by the people.

LOUISIANA CONVENTION.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 26, P. M.

The Convention succeeded in organizing to-day. The officers stand: President, white. Secretary, Sergeant at Arms and Doorkeeper, black. A Committee of thirteen, of which W. L. McMann is Chairman, was appointed to draft rules and regulations, pending which the rules of the House of Representatives of the United States were adopted.

The Tribune was elected Public Printer. The Republican failing by one vote.

The Conservative Convention, at Macon, promises to be fairly attended. The press is urging on the people the necessity of thorough organization for the purpose of defeating the Constitution to be submitted by the Reconstruction Convention.

Meetings have been held in various parts of the State and delegates appointed. It is believed that the Convention will issue an address urging the people not to take part in the election for the ratification of the reconstruction Constitution; hoping by this means to defeat it.

And I can say, with safety, that I have one among the largest and most complete stocks that has ever been brought to this City, either before or since the war,—embracing almost any and everything suitable for Ladies' and Gentlemen's wear.

CALICOES, 10, 12½, 15, and 12½ cents per yard.
FRENCH MERINOS, 75 cts. to $1,25 per yard.
DELAINES, POPLINS, and a great variety of other Dress Goods, embracing all the new novelties of the season, and will be sold cheap enough to insure sales.
BROWN DOMESTICS, 12½, 15 and 20 cts. per yard.
BLEACHED DOMESTICS, 12½, 15, 20 and 25 cts. per yard, and all other goods in proportion.
Also, the largest and most varied stock of

CLOTHS,
CASSIMERES,
SATINETS,
TWEEDS, AND KENTUCKY JEANS

I ever offered to the trade in this City, both as to price and quality.

Also a very fine assortment of White and Colored FLANNELS,

LADIES' CLOAKS,
BREAKFAST SHAWLS,
SQUARE AND LONG SHAWLS,

which will be sold at prices to suit my customers.

Ladies' Misses' and Children's TRIMMED AND UNTRIMMED HATS,—new styles, from 50 cents to $4,00 each.

Boots and Shoes, Boots and Shoes.

The largest and best stock I ever brought to the City, consisting, in part, of J. Miles & Sons' make, and others of equally high standing.

Ladies' Pegged Balmorals, from $1 to $2.
Ladies Sewed Balmorals, from $1,50 to $3,50.
CREECH'S is the place to come to buy your Boots and Shoes.

Hats, Hats, Hats,

From 75 cts. to $4,00. Don't stop until you come to CREECH'S to buy your Hats. In fact, I think I can meet the expectations of all my customers and the public generally, both as to price and quality of ALL Goods.

Now a few words to my customers and friends: You see a great many different styles of advertisements. Some say they are in "luck again;" some say they have "hit the nail on the head;" some "selling out at cost;" some to "make room for a new stock;" some one thing and some another. But allow me to say, whether I am in luck, or whether I hit the nail on the head, or whether I missed the nail entirely, or failed to advertise "selling out at cost," I have sold out my old stock, (while they are still hammering away over their old stock,) and have been North and bought a new stock. My goods are now in Store, and opened for inspection.

COME AND LOOK AT THEM.

I told my customers, six months ago, that I would sell goods as cheap as Yankee, Jew or Gentile, and I think I have made my word good.

I told the people to come to Creech's to buy their goods, that I would serve them right. Hundreds have come, and they are still coming from this and adjoining Counties. And I here take the privilege to say I think they have shown their good judgment.

Don't forget to come to

DAILY SENTINEL.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1867.

From the Wilson North Carolinian.

LETTER FROM GEORGIA.

Journalism—Advent of the Engine—Learning the Trade—The Boys of the Olden Time—Our Boss—Working the Press—Mr. Meredith, Battle, McPheeters, Lacy, Freeman, Blake—Their Sons—Bishop Ives—Mrs. Devereux and her great benevolence.

MACON, Ga., Nov. 14, 1867.

At the time of which I now write—1838—journalism in your State was emphatically a weekly business. No enterprising Bennett or Greeley were among us to venture upon the uncertainties involved in the publication of a daily. The people, too, were content to await the weekly visitations of their favorite, and having read that, desired nothing more. A few of the "public functionaries" patronized the Northern dailies; but the venerable Capt. Scott, long since gone to rest, could count only half a score of these. This was before the completion of the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad, and when the stage was used in carrying the mail. But when the great iron horse came rushing into Raleigh, it woke up her citizens, and they at once began to spread themselves. They found they were much behind the times. Gales began the publication of a semi-weekly Register; several new papers were started in fact, everything took a new start. Your very humble servant, who was then engaged in the honorable business of clerk in a whiskey shop, was suddenly imbued with a desire to be a printer. He had somehow learned that Franklin was a printer, as were one or two others who had more recently figured in history, and this fact, elucidated and amplified by several lads already at the business, so operated upon him, that he at once made up his mind to try it any way. I well remember how I approached the editor. He took me on trial. That was just twenty-nine years ago. The "form" of many a noble hearted typo has been "locked up" since then. Another generation has sprung up, and but few printers of that day remain. Should any of those few chance to see this sketch, they will no doubt recollect the rollicking times we had together. How, when the labors of the day were over, we would wander forth to set the town aright! Were I a spiritualist, how I would love to hold converse with the departed. But enough. I will leave the subject just here.

Our employer was a preacher, and I was told a very good one. He belonged to that very large and influential denomination known as Baptists. But in spite of all his pretensions to piety, he possessed a most unaccountable temper. He was easily irritated, and the least thing would offend him. He had no practical knowledge of the business, and would often, when in a state of excitement, undertake matters he was unable to accomplish. On one occasion, when every one had given himself permission to attend the circus, he, assisted by a negro boy, undertook to work off the outside of the paper. Unfortunately he put the form on the press face downward, and when the first sheet was taken off, his rage was great. He capsized the poor boy by a well aimed blow with the "shooting-stick," and then proceeded to take another impression, but with no better success. So he worked and fretted until we returned. When he saw us there was a fuss, and it was reported "somebody got hurt." But he has long since been called hence. May I not hope that, after life's fitful fever, he rests well! Mr. Meredith had his faults, but who has not? He had many good qualities, and these only we should remember. He was a fine writer, and wielded an influence among his brethren excelled by none.

Mr. Meredith's associate, for a time, in the editorial management of the Recorder, was the Rev. Amos J. Battle. His liberality and benevolence were very great, as was his usefulness as a minister. I have long since lost sight of him.

Among the most prominent Divines of that day, were Rev. Dr. McPheeters and Dr. Lacy, of the Presbyterian church; Dr. Freeman, of the Episcopal, and Rev. B. T. Blake, of the Methodist. These eminent men were the oracles of their respective churches. I remember with what great reverence I regarded them. My special favorite, however, was Dr. Freeman. I attended his ministry for several years, until a difference of opinion arising between himself and people, he resigned his charge and emigrated West. He had three sons—one of whom became a minister, and another is, I believe, in the Lunatic Asylum in Raleigh. One of Dr. McPheeters' sons joined the church, and was for several years pastor of a church in Cincinnati or St. Louis. The Rev. Mr. Blake is still living. He must now be well advanced in years. I know not his present status in the church; but I once thought that should the Rev. B. T. Blake die, the Methodist church would have to go on a recruiting expedition.

Dr. Lacy was a model pastor. His people loved him cordially, nor was his popularity confined to his own church—everybody loved this good man. His house was the seat of a refined hospitality, where all were welcomed. I believe he is now at the head of Davidson College.

The Right Rev. L. Silliman Ives was at the time in the zenith of his popularity and usefulness. He was a christian minister of great benevolence, and exercised a commanding influence in his Diocese. His subsequent "fall from his high estate" was a matter of universal regret. Many were disposed to criticise the dead lion; but the charitably inclined said no harm of the man whose infirmities led him astray.

But, perhaps, no one ever lived in your State who was more universally beloved than Mrs. Devereux. Every man, woman and child, fairly worshipped the noble-hearted old woman. Her carriage was called the "travelling hospital." Day in and day out it was lumbering around in the byways and highways, its owner in search of the destitute and suffering. Whatever in the way of charity she found to do, she did it at once. In the wider sphere of benevolence she excelled. The question of building a parsonage was a vexed one. She ordered it to be erected and furnished at her own expense. Eternity alone can disclose the amount of money she distributed in deeds of charity. Like most of those of whom I am writing, she has long since gone where the angels are continuously shouting the praises of the Redeemer. One lovely morning her gentle spirit went away, and the city entire became mourners.

"The angel of the Covenant
Was come, and faithful to his promise stood
Prepared to walk with her through death's dark vale.
And now her eyes grew bright, and brighter still,
Too bright for ours to look upon, suffused
With many tears; and closed without a cloud
They set as sets the morning star, which goes
Not down behind the darken'd West, nor hides
Obscured among the tempests of the sky,
But melts away into the light of heaven."

"84."

THE FIRE EXTINGUISHER.

This Portable, Self-Acting Fire Engine

IS OFFERED TO THE Public as a ready, certain and speedy means of preventing LARGE CONFLAGRATIONS.

Until the invention of the

Portable, Self-Acting Fire Engine,

Fires have been met by means too slow, too late and too cumbrous. But few persons in this country have the advantage of large hand or Steam Fire Engines, and those few often suffer a total loss of their property by reason of the great length of time consumed in sending for and getting them into working order.

BUT NOT SO WITH THE FIRE EXTINGUISHER,

which, being kept charged and standing in your House, Store or Factory, is always Ready for Instant Service.

The fire can be extinguished and your property saved without loss or damage, or even an alarm of Fire.

The first few minutes of conflagration decide the fate of the property; "a little fire is quickly put out, which, being suffered, rivers cannot quench."

THE EXTINGUISHER, being very simple in its operation, and entirely self-propelling, requires no previous skill or practice to operate it, and being so light, portable and self-acting, is capable of being used in any place, by any person, male or female.

It puts out all fires, arising from whatever cause.

You are saved from the immense water damage caused by large Engines.

You can effect insurance on your property

At Lower Rates,

if protected by the Extinguisher.

The Extinguisher is no humbug, as thousands of good men in Europe and America will testify.

I have already put these little Engines into some of our best Factories and largest Schools in N. C.

No House, Store, Factory or Corporation is safe without them.

The price is as nothing, compared with the protection they afford.
